Just like any other movie or music file, there is no dedicated location for finding your audio files on your computer once they have been downloaded from YouTube. The best place to look for these files is in the YouTube folder in your My Documents folder. Every version of Windows has a different location for your My Documents folder and it may be called something like My Documents, Documents and Settings, or even Users. If you are having trouble locating this folder, try searching your computer for a specific file you know is located in this folder. If you find the file when searching for this file name, look through the results list to find where it is located on your computer. To open the My Documents folder, browse to Start >> My Computer or Start >> Computer and then click on "Documents." This will open the My Documents folder in Windows Explorer. Your audio files will be stored in this folder. Note: The "Documents" folder may be called something different depending on the version of Windows you are using and whether your computer is set up to use a language other than English. Note: If you have trouble locating the "Documents" folder, we will guide you through setting up a new folder later in this tutorial so you can copy your files into it. The next step is to transfer your files to your iPod or media player. To do this, plug one end of the USB cord into the iPod dock and the other end into an open USB port on your computer. Your iPod should automatically appear under My Computer in My Computer or Computer. If not, look for it under Devices and drives. Right-click on your iPod in My Computer or Computer and click "Copy files to ipod..." A window will open with a list of the audio files currently on your computer. To select all of the files in the list, hold down Ctrl (Control) while clicking each file. You can also just click all of them by holding down Ctrl + A. Note: If you do not have Windows Media Player installed on your computer, you will be prompted to download it when trying to copy your music to your iPod. Click "Next" to copy the selected files from the Documents folder into the music folder on your iPod.
